

Refund and Cancellation Policy

cerbyl.com | Last updated 5 September 2026

This Policy applies to paid Cerbyl digital subscriptions and one-time digital purchases made directly from Cerbyl.

1. Cancel at any time

Cancel a recurring plan through your account billing controls or email billing@cerbyl.com from your registered email. Cancellation stops the next renewal. Unless a refund is approved, paid access continues until the end of the billing period.

2. First-purchase refund window

You may request a refund within 7 calendar days after your first purchase of a paid Cerbyl plan if the account has not made substantial use of paid features, credits or generated content. We assess substantial use reasonably using account activity and the nature of the plan. Renewals, upgrades and repeat purchases are not covered by this voluntary window.

3. Other eligible cases

We will investigate and, where verified, refund or correct duplicate charges, a charged transaction where access was not delivered because of a Cerbyl error, or an unauthorised payment reported promptly. Your payment provider may require verification.

4. Normally non-refundable

Except where this Policy or law requires otherwise, fees are not refundable or prorated for unused time after the 7-day window, change of mind after substantial use, failure to cancel before a disclosed renewal, partial billing periods, unused credits, account suspension caused by a breach, exchange-rate movements, or third-party fees not retained by Cerbyl.

5. How to request a refund

Email billing@cerbyl.com with your registered email address, transaction ID, payment date, amount and reason. Do not send full card details, passwords or OTPs. We ordinarily acknowledge requests within 2 business days and aim to decide them within 7 business days.

6. Approved refunds

Approved refunds are sent to the original payment method. Cerbyl will initiate the refund promptly; the bank, card network or payment provider may take an additional 5-10 business days to display it. International settlement and conversion differences are controlled by the payment provider.

7. Consumer rights

Nothing in this Policy limits a refund, remedy or consumer right that cannot be excluded under applicable law. Unresolved payment disputes may be sent to grievance@cerbyl.com.
